COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

Those of us who attended the Tax Collectors' and Treasurers' School in Augusta last week found this year's meeting to be one of the best we have attended.

The subject of prime interest to most was the new law compelling all municipalities to adopt a uniform fiscal year. There was much discussion as to the pros and cons of such a move with the larger communities, for the most part, defending the law as written and the smaller communities opposing.

There were many arguments heard from both sides with the proponents bringing out the fact that better coordination would exist between municipalities, Federal, State and school governments if they were all on one schedule, also the law eliminates the period from when the books close until town meetings when towns operate without funds.

Opponents felt these benefits were offset by the inconvenience of local officials having to close their books during the summer months when most do not have the time to devote to the project. They feel also that it would be very difficult to present a realistic budget without knowing what balances existed in the various accounts.

DISTRICT 44 SCHOOLS TO OPEN WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 3 —BUS SCHEDULES LISTED

Classes in all schools in S. A. D. 44 are scheduled to start on Wednesday, Sept. 3.

The Ethel Bisbee and Crescent Park Schools in Bethel will begin classes at 9:00 a. m. this September, instead of 8:30 a. m. This will extend the end of the school day from 2:30 p. m. to 3:00 p. m. The reason for the change in schedule is so that the students will not have as long a morning-wait for school to start and an afternoon-wait for the buses to pick them up, according to Roger A. Spugnardi, administrative assistant, S A. D. 44. Last year, students were required to wait up to 45 minutes for all buses to deliver students to school and another 45 minutes for buses to pick them up after school in the afternoon. The new schedule will deliver children to school 10 to 15 minutes before school begins in the morning and will pick them up directly when school is over in the afternoon.

Transportation Policy: Transportation will be provided to pupils who live more than one mile from the school attended (see High School Transportation Policy for certain exceptions). Shorter distances may apply where there are hazardous walking conditions as determined by the superintendent and transportation team. Pupils may be required to walk up to one-half mile to get to the bus route, or up to one mile on roads unsuitable or unsafe for a regular bus without tire chains. High school pupils within villages may be required to walk up to one mile to get to the bus route.

High School Transportation Policy: Transportation will be provided to all high school students attending Telstar Regional High School who reside in School Administrative District 44.

SURVEY TO SEEK TALLY OF COUNTY'S UNEMPLOYED

A Maine Employment Security Commission job specialist team launched a town-to-town, door-to-door survey of Oxford County's work force this week, aimed at finding out how many people are unemployed in this area and where they are likely to find jobs.

The start of the survey was announced by the Oxford County Economic Opportunity Council, which asked for the services of the job placement team last spring.

The survey team introduced itself to municipal officials in the Bethel area Tuesday and explained the purpose of its work.

Reportedly they would probably work Bethel, Newry, Milton Plantation, Andover, Gilead, and towns north and west of Bethel before heading toward the southern and southwestern sections of the county.

Progress could be delayed if the team is taken from the job to perform work for the State Department of Economic Development.

Cost of the survey is covered by the U. S. Department of Labor, which funds state employment offices for such projects through its Smaller Communities Program Title.

SURVEY SEES LIMITED RECREATIONAL USE FOR ANDROSCOGGIN RIVER

The main stem of the Androscoggin River will "have limited foreseeable use as a recreational facility," according to a Maine Resources Planning report prepared by the Edward C. Jordan Co., Inc., consulting engineers and planners.

The river will, in all likelihood, "continue to be used for industrial water supply, power generation and disposal of waste products," according to the report.

The report, prepared for the State Planning Office, is designed to provide a guide for water supply and pollution control planning of nine Water Resources Study Regions located throughout the state. The remarks about the Androscoggin River were made in that portion pertaining to the Androscoggin Study Region.

"It is possible," the report continues, "that boating, some fishing, and other non-contact recreation can take place. Industrial and population concentrations along the river will probably prohibit contact recreation in most areas for some time in the future."

"The limited recreation potential of the Androscoggin River's main stem suggested that its many tributaries should be maintained in as high a water quality as possible. Fortunately, current development is such that this may be realistic if water resources development plans are established for the river basin. The Androscoggin River system has sufficient water resources to effectively meet the needs of the region for all phases of development if realistic planning is accomplished.

"River basin planning for the region should be done in cooperation with the State of New Hampshire," the firm advises.

According to the Portland firm, the "major polution control problem in the Androscoggin Region is that of industrial waste reduction.

"Major sources of industrial pollution along the main stem of the Androscoggin River are located in Lisbon, Lewiston, Livermore Falls, Jay, Rumford and Berlin, N. H. The pulp and paper industry is the major cause of this pollution. To realize effective pollution control programs, means must be found to reduce the industrial pollution consistent with the goals for the river basin as a whole.

"These goals," the firm continues, must be a function of all phases of water and land use compatible with reasonable economic development and environmental conservation. Planning consideratons should include joint treatment of both municipal and industrial waste waters in all communities within the basin. In this way economies of scale may be realized and maximum advantage obtained from applicable State and Federal grant-in-aid programs."

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

On Friday evening my nephew said, "Let's go fishing tomorrow." So at seven thirty we set out prepared for the day. We headed for the shores of a little river far back from the highway.

The foliage formed a rich canopy over our heads closely woven but pleasant above a magnificent floor. It was a silent and deserted woodland except for the curious chickadees and small animals.

In this section we occasionally came to a jumble of rocks open and exposed to the quiet waters while higher up flowing over a gray weathered rock came the foaming waters from a punch bowl somewhere above.

Between the boulders a thin carpet of moss was spread some of which was really slippery, soaked with the spray and rains of the night before.

Who fishes for a whole day along a mountain stream edged with alders, slippery moss and various growth without at least one fall? I don't! And that one fall was a lucky one. Where the tangle was thickest I slipped and landed neatly between two alders, on my back over the water; a perfect resting place, otherwise a perfect (?) bath.

Below the turbulent stretches where the waters spilled themselves over a confusion of boulders, bursting into foam and forming dizzying pools the trout lay hidden. They like the boiling and bubbling of this "kettle," fins up and tail moving just enough to keep them up and take them where they want to go.

All along the way the incense of the forest was aromatic with pine, spruce and fir and was lovely, cool and green.

The minutes and hours sped by. At one thirty we ate our lunch and to me it seemed no later than ten.

When you hear the wild voice of the river for a time, willful and insistant, you miss it when you leave. You hear then only the silence and find yourself listening for the flowing and lunging over the boulders and outcropping of ledges, beneath the network of evergreens mottling the arch of the sky.

We watched the daylight crawling into the forests and there came a few moments of rain. Then again the sun filtered through like a halo and we emerged on an old road which led toward home.

The valleys broadened and the hilltops were now out in the open, but some still asleep under their blanket of mist.

We had enjoyed our "get out and go" and also our trout for supper in spite of wet feet and tiredness, a full ten hour day of wading streams, endless trails and bubbling waters.

Christian Science
"Soul" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon to be heard Sunday in all Christian Science churches. The Responsive Reading includes these verses from Isaiah: "Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee . . . Violence shall no more be heard in thy land, wasting nor destruction within thy borders."
"A demonstration of the facts of Soul in Jesus' way resolves the dark visions of material sense into harmony and immortality." This correlative passage, also from the Lesson-Sermon, is from the denomination's textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.
Services begin at 11 a. m. at First Church of Christ Scientist, Main and Tenth Streets, Berlin, N. H.
The Christian Science Radio Series "The Bible Speaks to You," is broadcast each Sunday over Station WMOU, Berlin, N. H., at 8:15 a. m. The theme on Aug. 17 will be "Getting Along With Parents."

FORMER BETHEL BALLPLAYER PRACTICES WITH SENATORS

by Bob Casey, Assistant Sports Editor, New Haven (Conn.) Register, July 15, 1969.

"It was the biggest thrill of my life." That's the way New Haven College third baseman Neil Olson described a two day stay with the Washington Senators and manager Ted Williams last week.

Olson, who is playing summer baseball in the Virginia Collegiate League, went to Washington to see the Senators play the Indians and ended up practising with the American League club.

Neil explained it this way:

For six years he attended Ted Williams Baseball School in Lakeville, Mass. He didn't limit his stay to the normal two weeks a year. He stayed for the entire 15, and helped pay his way by cutting the grass and raking the infield.

After awhile, Williams got to recognize him. He was impressed with the kid's interest in baseball.

"Darndest kid you ever saw," said Williams. "I think he went to bed with his glove and baseball."

Four years ago Williams introduced him to Frank Vieira, the New Haven College baseball coach, who assisted Williams and Camp Director Joe Camacheo for the summer.

Vieira was so impressed he offered Olson a baseball scholarship to NHC and the East Bethel, Maine youth accepted.

Last Monday (July 7), Olson decided to see the Senator-Cleveland game at Kennedy Stadium.

I went down to say hello to Mr. Camacheo (who now serves as one of Williams' coaches), and Mr. Williams saw me, said Neil.

"What are you doing down here, kid," said the Senator manager.

"I came down to see you play," said Olson. "Fine," said Williams. "Why don't you stay a couple of days and work out with us."

Olson said he was "stunned". "It's another world," said the NHC third baseman. He said the Senators gave him Camilio Pascual's old uniform and let him take batting practice with the utility men.

When Frank Howard got up, Neil was fielding ground balls at third base.

"I guess I was playing a little close," said the NHC infielder, "because Tim Cullen, the Senator's third baseman told me to move back."

On the next pitch Frank Howard rifled a shot past third that would have taken Neil's head off if he had stayed in close.

Cullen just laughed.

"No one plays that close when the big fellow is up," grinned the Senator infielder.

Olson said he was impressed with Howard. "The first day I was there, he came up to me and introduced himself," said Neil. "He didn't have to do that. But he's a great guy. Everyone on the team likes him. He's a very gentle person despite the fact that he is 6-7 and weighs 200 pounds."

During his two days with the Senators, Neil said he met most of the players, but was very impressed with Howard, Cullen and Wayne Terwilliger, the former major league infielder, who now serves as one of Williams' coaches.

"It's different up there," said Neil, they don't throw especially hard during batting practice, they just concentrate on getting the ball over the plate."

Olson is a complete baseball bug. He was married the day before NHC played in the NAIA regionals and he and his bride spent their honeymoon in Millersville, Pa., where the Chargers were eliminated in the finals. Immediately after the tourney the newlyweds drove to Virginia where Neil is working in an Appizza restaurant during the day and plays baseball at night.

"He's a baseball nut," says Vieira. "He keeps a game by game diary of his performance. This year he hopes to get 150 hits. For the past two years he's been my leading hitter."

Baseball is Neil Olson's whole life. (He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hankon Olson of Bethel, and a graduate of Gould Academy.)

CASTINE MEETING SEPT. 6 TO DISCUSS MAINE'S SESQUICENTENNIAL PLANS

Representatives of 100 Maine historical organizations and museums, Sesquicentennial planners and interested individuals, will go to Castine on Saturday, Sept. 6, for day-long sessions designed to aid in the planning of Maine's 1970 observance.

Facilities of the Maine Maritime Academy have been made available for the discussions, for small boat cruises in the harbor, and for visits to local landmarks in the historic capital of French, British and Dutch occupation.

The event is the scheduled annual meeting of the Maine League of Historical Societies and Museums, tied to the theme of Maine's Sesquicentennial. Mrs. Peter A. Isaacson of Lewiston, League president, says member societies had been asked to give capsule reports of their local plans for the 1970 observance at a post-luncheon session of the meeting.

Highlights of the Sept. 6 sessions will include a morning address, following a brief 10:30 o'clock business meeting, by Ray Sivisend of Madison, Wisc., director of Historic Sites in that state, whose subject is "Planning by Local Societies for a Statewide Celebration." Mr. Sivisend has had broad experience, Mrs. Isaacson said, in the participation of societies in centennial celebrations in the midwest. Morning meetings will be in the Baron Castin Hall and Hall lounge at the Maritime Academy.

At three o'clock in the afternoon, Francis W. Hatch, Castine raconteur and musician, will speak on the subject "Musical History," in the lounge of the Training Ship State of Maine at dockside.

At two o'clock, the first 80 mail registrants for the privilege will have embarked on hour-long cruises of the harbor in Academy launches. Others in attendance will have visited Fort George and other Castine shore sites.

The program committee has announced a four o'clock adjournment to give all meeting participants an opportunity to visit the Wilson Museum at Castine, which houses anthropological and geological collections and which is the headquarters of the Maine Archeological Society.

The Sept. 6 program will begin with registration and coffee between 10 and 10:30 o'clock in the Baron Castin Hall of the Academy, but advance registration by mail has been requested to facilitate luncheon arrangements at the Academy. Mrs. Donald D. Kimball, League secretary and a member of the meeting program committee, will receive reservations until Aug. 27 at Box 177, Kennebunk.

Other program committee members are: Charles E. Burden, M. D., chairman; Mrs. Norman W. Doudiet, Wilson Museum; Mrs. Isaacson; Herbert T. Silsby II, Ellsworth; and LCDR Howard Jordan, Maine Maritime Academy.

Mrs. Isaacson has stated that the Maine League was particularly pleased to be able to hold its first meeting at Castine . . . "We are very grateful to Admiral Edward Rogers, not only for the fine facilities made available to us but for the interest shown by him and his staff in our plans and objectives," she said.

Barbara Hutchinson was guest of honor at a pre-nuptial shower Friday, August 8, at the home of Mrs. Keith Bartlett, assisted by Mrs. Donald Bennett. Shower cake was made by Mrs. Leona Flint. Guests were Mrs. Vernon Brown, Mrs. Alton Carroll, Mrs. Lloyd Luxton, Mrs. Louis Sargent, Mrs. Ruth Young, Mrs. Harold Carver, Mrs. Roderick McMillin, Mrs. Jackie Roberts, Mrs. Leland Mason, Mrs. Loton Hutchinson.

Letters to the Editor

Newry, Maine
August 9, 1969

To the Editor:

The Maine Municipal Association and the Oxford County Municipal Officers Assn. have both gone on record as being opposed to the law requiring all municipalities to adopt a July 1 - June 30 fiscal year. Also, every municipal officer I have talked with about this bill has been opposed to it. Currently, the United States government is considering a change in their fiscal year from the July 1-June 30 dates to the calendar year.

An article in the Lewiston Daily Sun on August 8, gave some of Rep. Louis Jalbert's reasons for supporting the bill. Number 1: During the period between the end of the fiscal year and the March Town Meetings municipalities are operating without appropriated funds. (2) Nearly one third of the year's appropriations are spent before the officers elected at the March meetings take office. (3) Many municipalities have to hire extra money because State subsidies are not paid until after the beginning of the State's fiscal year, July 1.

To answer, number One: It would be very difficult for the municipal officers to make up their budget in time for a March meeting if the year did not end until June 30, and the year for which the budget was being prepared did not begin until July 1. Further, I believe that the statutes state that the annual reports shall be in the hands of the voters at least four days before the town meeting. Obviously, the report could not be prepared until after the books were closed. Therefore, it would be impracticable, if not impossible to hold the meeting in March. Thus the "lame duck" period would only be changed to another date, not eliminated. I understand that the law makes no provision for a change in the town meeting date, which I believe, the laws says shall be held in March.

Number two: Approximately 90% of the Maine municipalities now close their books Dec. 31, or sometime between then and March 1. Town meetings are usually held early in March. This would be much less than the third of a year Mr. Jalbert stated. Further, Federal and State officials take office in January, right in the middle of the fiscal year. This would mean that one half the budget had been spent, not one sixth to one third.

Number three: This need not present too serious a problem as some State Subsidies are paid between January first and July first. Also, any municipality wishing to do so may adopt the July 1-June 30 fiscal year. The fact that very few municipalities did this would seem to indicate that the officials considered a December 31, or a January closing date more satisfactory.

I have talked with other town officials in regards to this bill, many of them with years of experience in town affairs. I feel sure that these men want what is best for their towns. All have been opposed to the change.

I feel strongly that this bill should be repealed at the upcoming Special Session of the Legislature. I urge all of you who oppose this bill to contact your legislators and let them know your feelings in this matter.

Sincerely,
Roger E. Hanscom

INTERNATIONAL YOUTH ACADEMY ENJOYING FIRST SUMMER ON ISLE OF RHODES

The International Youth Academy, enjoying its first summer on the Island of Rhodes, and is pleased to report that the curriculum, geared to the high school level, is being received with much enthusiasm by the students and staff.

In addition to the morning hours which are spent in an informal classroom situation, the students have visited on numerous occasions the historically beautiful "old city" of Rhodes, the famous Acropolis of Lindos and last Saturday, Aug. 2, made an all-day boat trip to Turkey.

Evenings are spent in attending festivities in the city and becoming acquainted with many Greek young people of high school age.

Wednesday, Aug. 6, the students were invited to meet with the mayor of Rhodes at the City Hall and honored at an informal reception, attended by several members of the City Council and educational officials.

Plans are currently being discussed with the Mayor and Inspector of Education to include among next year's student body a number of the Rhodian high school-age students. The educational facilities of the Island of Rhodes have been placed at the disposal of the Academy. Enthusiasm on Rhodes toward the summer program is tremendous and is but another indication of the wisdom in instituting the program this summer.

On Friday, Aug. 8, the students and staff were honored at a private audience with the Archbishop of Rhodes.

This same week, students were invited to spend the week end in the homes of pre-selected Greek families having young people of high school age.

A further interesting experience has been provided the I. Y. A. students. On Thursday, July 31, students were assigned certain villages to visit. They had to determine their own transportations, make their own contacts with the village people and also to arrange their transportation back to the city.

The purpose of this experience was designed to expose the students to an immersion in the over all contemporary culture of the island. The students will report on their experiences following their return to the city.

Thus the weeks appear, as one student commented, "to fly by as on the winged feet of Mercury." The health of the students and staff is excellent. The meals and accommodations are outstanding in every respect. The detriment of many a traveler abroad, "culture strain" and homesickness are both non-existent.

The pleasant, relaxed and carefree life of the Island has captivated the entire group. It is apparent that at the end of this month, they will return to their respective homes in the states, a group of young people who have had the opportunity to learn about the exciting history of Greece and its contribution to the cultures of the world, but, most importantly, these young students will have learned something about themselves and their relationship and responsibility to the world community in which they live.

Miss Bethany Andrews, a 1969 graduate of Telstar Regional High School, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stanley Andrews of Bryant Pond, is among those participating in this program.

Members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church are invited to attend the dedication ceremonies of the new White Memorial Church, on Forest Avenue, in Portland, on Aug. 16. Elder R. H. Pierson, the president of the General Conference, Washington, D. C., will be the guest speaker at the dedication service at 3 p. m.

This week is teen-age week at Camp Lawroweld.

The annual memorial service was held at the Washington, N. H., Church, on Aug. 9. This was the first Seventh-day Adventist Church building in the New England States. It was here that Joseph Bates, John Loughborough, James and Ellen White and Eugene Farnsworth, pioneer preachers in the Adventist faith worshiped. The old Church was restored as near as possible to its original appearance inside and out, several years ago, and is the site where hundreds of people gather once a year in August for a memorial service. Loud speakers make it possible for the overflow audience outside to hear the services.
